NEW CONTRACT AIMS TO BOOST U. S. HOG YIELD

30 Per Cent Increase Next Year AAA Answer to Consumers' Price Complaints.

LOCAL CONTROL PLANNED

Groups in Communities To Make Appraisals and Determine Farmer's "Base."

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2—Emphasizing that "balanced" farming is the aim, AAA officials made public today details of the 1936-1937 contracts offered farmers for corn-hog control.

The contracts, effective as of yesterday, are designed to increase hog production by 30 per cent in 1936. A shortage of hogs has led to higher prices, with protests from consumers.

Leading features of the con-

Community and country committees will make appraisals and determine a farmer's base production of hogs and his base corn acreage.

100 Per Cent of Hog Base

2. The contracting farmer will be permitted to raise 100 per cent of the hog base.

3. He will be required to keep his corn acreage 10 to 30 per cent under his base.

4. A producer will receive $1.25 benefit payment for each hog in his base for 1936.

5. Corn benefits will be at the rate of 35 cents a bushel for 1936. Producers must grow at least 25 per cent of the base corn acreage to qualify for payments. The 1936 payments are to be made in two installments, the first about Aug. 1 and the second about Dec. 31.

To Deduct Cost Pro Rata

A pro rata share of local administrative costs will be deducted from each producer's adjustment payments.

Provision has been made for tenants and landlords to share in the benefit payments according to their interests in the assigned corn base, and as the corn crops under the lease are divided on each separately owned tract.

An alternative has been provided whereby the tenants and landlords may make the division, subject to approval of the allotment committee, according to the number of allotted corn acres in each separately owned tract. The hog payments are to be divided as the hog crop is divided.

Must Plant Other Crops

Acres taken out of corn production must be planted in soil improving or erosion preventing crops.

Aims of the new program, the AAA said, are to balance the corn crop with livestock feeding requirements; to encourage better balanced cropping systems; to maintain a balance between producer and consumer interests, and to restore the balance in production between regions adversely affected by weather during the last two years.

Await Instructions on New Program

County Farm Agent S. L. Anderson today awaited official instructions from the agricultural adjustment administration regarding the 1936-37 corn-hog production control program.

He said his only knowledge of the new program to date has been obtained from the newspapers, and that he will be unable to tell what steps will be taken in Marion county until instructions arrive.

Thirty supervisors are now at work in the county making a checkup of farmers' compliance with the 1935 program. When this has been done, work on the 1935 program will be finished.

DISCOVERER OF KING TUT'S TOMB IS DEAD

Authorities Silent as to Cause; Ominous Words Predicted Death.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Dec. 2—Dr. James H. Breasted, noted archaeologist and head of the oriental institute of the University of Chicago, died early today at the Presbyterian medical center.

Hospital authorities, in announcing the death of the scientist maintained the same secrecy as to the cause of death as they had concerning his strange illness.

Dr. Breasted was stricken last week aboard the liner Conte Di Savoia enroute back to the United States. His illness was first diagnosed as tropical malaria, but later it was said he was suffering from an undetermined malady.

The archaeologist was one of the discoverers of the tomb of King Tutankhamen on whose walls were carved the words:

"Death shall come on swift wings to him that toucheth the tomb of the king."

Dr. Breasted, however, had frequently ridiculed this curse.

At the hospital, it was said the family of the scientist would issue a complete bulletin of the illness and death later today.

SOY BEAN MILL TO START WORK

Wheels Will Start Turning Tuesday Morning, Company Officials Say.

DISPLAY ARRIVES HERE

World's Fair Exhibit Set Up as Part of Celebration To Open Thursday.

The wheels of Marion's newest industry, Old Fort Mills, Inc., will start turning Tuesday morning with 20 employes engaged in processing the first soy beans purchased in this territory by the company.

Installation of a part of the machinery needed for preliminary work has been completed, O. A. Holland, vice president and secretary of the company, announced, and everything is set to get under way.

The working force of 20 men will be increased right along as more machinery is set up and operations are speeded, Mr. Holland said.

Program Opens Thursday

As things were in readiness for the start of plant operations the arrangements committee for Marion "soy bean days" announced that preparations were nearing completion for the three-day celebration of the establishment of Old Fort Mills, Inc., here. The event will open Thursday morning and continue through Saturday.

Several sections of the soy bean display from the Chicago World's fair have arrived in the city and were being set up today in The Star auditorium, where a soy bean show is to be held in connection with the celebration. The exhibit was brought here from its present home, the University of Illinois at Champaign, by the Big Four railroad. The other sections were expected to reach here Tuesday or Wednesday.

Scientist To Speak

Dr. Edsel A. Ruddiman of Dearborn, Mich., head of the research department of the Ford Motor Co., will deliver the principal address of the Thursday night program in The Star auditorium. Arrangements were being made today for a program that morning. Other attractions on the night program include musical entertainment by the Harding High school orchestra. John H. Clark will act as chairman, and will introduce Dr. Ruddiman.

A score or more of prominent railroad men in the country have indicated they will be in Marion during "soy bean days," E. F. Schreiber, traffic manager and purchasing agent for Old Fort Mills, said. Other visitors during the celebration will include virtually every important elevator and mill operator in north central Ohio, and many newspaper editors from this section of the state.

1,250 ON RELIEF LIST AS COUNTY TAKES BURDEN

Officials Move To Cut Number Materially as More Find Work with WPA.

700 MEN NOW HAVE JOBS

Many Counties Face Difficulties as They Take Full Responsibility.

While the switch of the direct relief burden from federal hands to local control went along smoothly in Marion county today, Ohio, with 310,940 residents destitute and her credit at stake, raced against the twin specter of hunger and default of a $750,000 bond obligation.

Marion county, with the board of county commissioners and townships handling the problem, has 1,250 cases left on their list. The cost of feeding and maintaining these people during the first two weeks of this month is estimated by County Relief Director John Abel at $13,500, most of which will come out of $65,000 county commissioners have on hand to fight starvation and want in this county during the winter and spring months.

Meanwhile WPA officials here doubled their efforts today to get works projects started in order that the case load of 1,250 may be substantially reduced by the middle of the month. Many now included in that load will be removed Dec. 12 when they receive their first WPA checks. Several hundred others are scheduled to go to work on projects within two weeks.

700 Now At Work

O. N. Essex, WPA engineer here, predicted the start of about a half dozen projects with the very near future. There are now approximately 700 relief clients at work on projects already started, he estimated.

Food orders for the first half of the month were placed in the mail for relief clients yesterday. These orders may be converted into commodities at any home-owned grocery store. Arrangements also are being made to distribute fuel, clothing and other necessities to needy families.

John Abel attended a meeting in Findlay Saturday of all relief directors in this district, numbering 23 counties. The conference was called by E. W. Patton, district field representative, to discuss plans for the liquidation of the federal relief set-up in the counties. Liquidation will take 90 days or longer, Abel said.

The federal government has informed Mr. Abel that he may have an administrative staff of 15 persons, including himself, for liquidation work during December. This number probably will be reduced by 50 per cent in January, he was told. The staff also is being loaned to the county to help administer its set-up. The government has offered to bear half of the expense of adding seven more members to this staff. The county would pay the remaining half. Mr. Abel was to meet with county commissioners this afternoon to receive their answer to this purposal. They already have tentatively approved it, he said, and the prospects are that the relief administrative force during this month will number 22

BROWN DECIDES NOT TO SEEK DAVEY'S JOB

Will Devote His Time To Supporting Col. Knox in Presidential Race.

By The Associated Press

BLANCHESTER, O., Dec. 2—Clarence Brown, defeated Republican candidate for governor at the last election, announced today he would not be a candidate for any public office in next year's campaigns.

The former secretary of state instead declared he would use all his efforts toward seeking the election of "my friend and fellow-publisher, Col. Frank Knox of Chicago," as President.

His statement said:

"In recent weeks I have received some inquiries as to whether or not I will be a candidate for governor at the coming Republican primaries. In answer thereto I wish to state plainly that I shall not be a candidate for any public office for which nominations are to be made in May.

"Instead of seeking preferment for myself, I shall devote my time to bring about the naming to the presidency of my friend and fellow publisher, Col. Frank Knox of Chicago, and shall exert my efforts for a thorough and complete Republican victory in Ohio and the nation next November."

MARION OFFICER DIRECTS BANK ROBBERY ARRESTS

Fall Upturn in Business Best in Several Seasons

Gains in Production Figures, Employment and Payrolls Cited by Reserve Bank.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 2—The Federal Reserve bank of Cleveland reported today the fourth district had experienced this fall "the best upturn in business in several seasons," with startling gains in production figures and improvement in employment and payrolls.

The bank listed as the chief cause of improvement the automobile industry's earlier production of new models.

"By mid-November automobile output had risen to a rate approximately over 350,000 units a month, which was better than in any corresponding period since 1929," said the review. "In the first 10 months of this year 3,206,000 cars and trucks were made, compared with 2,753,000 units in all of 1934."

Steel Output Boosted

The bank observed that the automotive gain caused iron and steel plants in the district to produce at rates higher than the national average.

"Various employment indexes in this district were higher in October than at any time in the past five years and payrolls were reported much larger than a year ago," the review continued.

"This was reflected in retail trade circles. Sales at reporting department stores in the fourth district in October were 10 per cent larger than in the corresponding month of 1934. Retail furniture sales were up 16 per cent in October and automobile sales in principal counties, effected by the fact new models were forthcoming, were nevertheless slightly ahead of last year."

Building Trade Better

The bank said building activity had held up well during the fall, with weather favorable and both private and public construction "much above last year." Total work in the construction field has exceeded any fall since 1930, the review points out, with residential building four times greater than a year ago.

"A falling-off in sales of paints, china and pottery was experienced in early November," the review added. "Retail shoe sales were adversely effected by the weather, but production of local favorites was 32 per cent ahead of last year in October and for the year to date a gain of 15 per cent was reported."

Machine tool sales were less than the peak of late summer but were sharply up from other recent years at this season. Production of rubber products in October was 40 per cent greater than in the same month of 1934.

The review said increased buying for the pre-Christmas season was reflected in a greater seasonal rise in department store stocks and in reported sales by wholesale firms in the district.

Coal production fluctuated widely this fall, it continued, but was stimulated in October by household demands and increased industrial orders, together with "the realization that federal control of the coal industry began Nov. 1."

The bank reported electric production in its area gained 16 per cent in October over the corresponding 1934 month and similar gains were reported in early November.

BRITISH DEBATE BANNING OF OIL

Cabinet Considering What Course To Take If Embargo Brings Reprisals.

SOME QUARTERS UNEASY

Wonder Whether U. S. Would Also Close Its Markets; Il Duce Mobilizes Women.

By The Associated Press

The British cabinet debated today the problem of tightening the iron ring of sanctions imposed on Italy for initiating a war of occupation in Ethiopia.

Talk of peace in east Africa, the purpose for which sanctions were imposed, languished as Britain's attention turned to an oil embargo to freeze Italy into submission to the will of her sister states in the League of Nations.

Premier Mussolini at the same time took steps to "mobilize the women of the Fascist domain for a finish fight against the penalties."

Problem Two-Fold

A two-fold problem was before the British leaders in the sanctions drive:

1. Should an embargo on oil shipments to Italy be imposed at Geneva? Commentators little doubted the cabinet would approve the move and transmit its decision to the league.

2. If the embargo goes into effect and Italy makes good her threat of reprisals, what course shall Britain pursue? Italy already has warned that oil sanctions would be regarded as "an unfriendly act."

Extreme uneasiness was evidenced in some British quarters over the situation.

A question tangent to the problem of an oil embargo presented itself to the British cabinet. It was, would the United States join in closing its market to Italy if the league institutes the embargo?

ASSOCIATED GAS JOINS IN UTILITY LAW BATTLE

Asks Court To Declare Holding Company Act Unconstitutional as Filing Deadline Is Reached.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2—Associated Gas & Electric Corp., one of the bitterest foes of the new deal's utility law, was shown in a report received by the securities commission today to have joined other holding companies in seeking to restrain the act's enforcement.

The suit was filed in Wilmington, but the commission's first word of it was the receipt of the bill of complaint today.

The company asked the court to declare the act unconstitutional.

Total Now 32

The total of registered complaints was brought to 32 with the filing late yesterday of the Mission Oil Co. of Kansas City. Registration was still possible although the deadline passed at midnight last night.

Later registration will be proper but such registrants faced a possibility that their activities may have been illegal between Dec. 1, and the time of their actual registration.

Howard C. Hopson, a managing of the Associated Gas & Electric system, was quizzed at length by the senate lobby committee during passage of the holding company

BENESCH BECOMES COMMERCE LEADER

Resumes Office After Recovering From Illness.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 2—Alfred Benesch of Cleveland took active charge today as state director of commerce and appointed W. Paul Wagner of Canton, chief of the division of liquidation of banks and building and loans.

Wagner's position is a new one. He was commerce director throughout the summer, but resigned to permit Benesch, originally named to the position, to take charge.

Gov. Davey appointed Benesch a member of his cabinet. Illness prevented Benesch from serving and he resigned. Wagner succeeded him. Benesch recovered this fall and he, Wagner and Gov. Davey worked out the present arrangement.

Wagner will coordinate the activities of building and loan associations and bank liquidations.

COUNCIL TO ACT ON PLANT DEAL

Special Session Set for Tonight To Adopt Legislation.

TO OFFER RESOLUTION

Dr. F. C. Smith, Mayor-Elect, Will Ask Officials To Delay Action.

The first formal step toward municipal purchase of the Marion Water Co. plant is expected to be taken tonight when city council meets at 8 o'clock in a special session.

A resolution authorizing City Solicitor Theodore B. Ochs to prepare the necessary legislation to effect the purchase will be submitted to council for action.

Solicitor Ochs today said the resolution, if adopted by council, will authorize him to draw two ordinances to close the deal and provide for financing it.

One, he said, would be an ordinance determining to proceed with the purchase and giving certain officials authority to take the necessary steps to acquire the company.

Bond Proposal Included

The other would provide for the issuance of water revenue bonds to finance the purchase, he said. Officials have emphasized that the proposed bonds would be an obligation solely against the water plant and not against the tax duplicate of the city. They would be retired by earnings of the plant and not by general taxation, officials said.

If in on these two ordinances, which probably could be drawn within the next 10 days if authorized tonight, that Marion residents will have opportunity to file referendum petitions submitting the proposed purchase of the plant to a vote of the people. Officials said 10 per cent of the registered voters of the city, by signing a petition, could call for a referendum vote on the question, provided action is taken within 30 days from the time the ordinances are adopted by council.

Tonight's meeting of council is in line with the procedure outlined Saturday by Mayor Clarence A. Bolin when he disclosed that the Marion Water Co. had accepted the city's offer to pay $1,550,000 for the water plant.

Smith to Ask Delay

Dr. Frederick C. Smith, mayor-elect, said today he intends to ask council tonight to delay action on the resolution authorizing the solicitor to prepare legislation for purchase of the plant. He said he feels Marion residents have not had time to study the purchase proposal and contended the negotiations and steps toward purchase of the plant are being "rushed through."

AUTO SHOW PLANS NEAR COMPLETION

Decorations Go Up for Opening of Display Next Wednesday.

Arrangements were being completed today for Marion's annual four-day automobile show, which will open Wednesday at 295 West Center street.

One more auto dealer has entered a display in the exhibit since the list of nine was made public a few days ago. The Wilson Motor Car Co. will display the new Nash and Lafayettes.

Kenneth Fields, secretary of the Marion Retail Merchants Bureau, who is in charge of arrangements, announced that 25 other exhibits, comprising automobile accessories, furniture, oils and other merchandise, will be on the two floors of displays.

Entertainment at the show will be furnished by Gene Williams' dance orchestra and the Eagles lodge band. Round and square dancing will be held nightly at no charge.

Workers started decorating the building today. Decorations will be featured by electrically lighted Christmas trees on the main display floor.

NATURE LOVERS PLEAD FOR BIRDS

Marion nature lovers today urged residents of the city to remember the birds at mealtime.

Snow and ice covering the ground make it impossible for the birds to forage for their own meals, and cracker and bread crumbs will help to keep the birds from starving.

BRICKER FLAYS DAVEY IN CRISIS

Declares Governor To Blame for Threat to State's Credit Over Debt Now Due.

SAYS HE DELAYED ACTION

Rules Emergency Board Can Appropriate $350,000 for Meeting Obligation.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 2 — John W. Bricker, likely candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, blamed Democratic Gov. Davey for a financial crisis threatening the state's credit.

Bricker, present attorney general, asserted that Davey should have acted sooner to recommend how the state should care for $750,000 in obligations due Dec. 1.

Bricker made his comment in ruling informally that the state emergency board could appropriate $350,000 toward meeting the obligations.

"This emergency was caused by failure of the governor to notify the legislature in time to make an appropriation," Bricker said.

Davey Urges Refunding

Gov. Davey urged the legislature last Friday to refund the note for two years to preserve the balance in the state treasury. The treasury showed a balance of $20,119,712.40 for all funds today. There was $5,970,789.05 in the general fund from which the obligations would be paid.

"I'll do everything under the sun to prevent the state credit from being impaired and keep the state from defaulting," Bricker added. "No state since the Civil war has defaulted on its obligations. Ohio's credit has been A-1

MOTHER DEFENDS SON WHO KILLED FATHER

Declares Shooting in Wild Cat Valley Was Self Defense, Cites Man's Threats.

By The Associated Press

WISE, Va., Dec. 2—The mother of Haugeman Falin, 18-year-old mountain boy held in the killing of his father, came to her son's aid today with a declaration that the act was in self defense.

She told Sheriff J. Preston Adams that her husband knocked the youth down Friday with a pistol during an argument over their automobile.

The elder Falin, she said, threatened to "finish the little ——," and warned her "if you butt in, I'll kill you, too."

She ran from the house in Wild Cat valley, she said, and was cowering behind a tourist cabin when she heard shots. She thought her son had been killed.

Young Falin remained in jail here, held without bond, while his mother sought to perfect defense plans. She had not retained an attorney.

Commonwealth's Attorney Fred B. Gresser, who last month prosecuted a similar case resulting in the conviction of Edith Maxwell, said the youth "seemed to have a good case of self defense."

2 HARDIN CO. YOUTHS HELD

State Patrolman Kratzer Heads Roundup of Mt. Blanchard Holdup Suspects.

REPORT BOTH CONFESS

Arrests Made on Tip Obtained by Police Captain DeWees from Richwood Man.

J. M. Kratzer, patrolman-in-charge at the Marion substation of the state highway patrol, headed an investigation that led to the arrest yesterday of two Hardin county men who he said have confessed they robbed the Mt. Blanchard bank of $1,833 Friday.

The patrolman, scoring what is listed as the first bank robbery to be solved by the state highway patrol since it was organized, acted on a "tip" that came to him through Captain Ora DeWees of the Marion police department. Capt. DeWees, Patrolman Kratzer said, received the tip from a Union county automobile dealer where the suspects tried to trade automobiles shortly after the holdup.

The pair arrested as a result of Patrolman Kratzer's investigation are Harold Carmean, 19, and Raymond McMahon, 20, both of whom lived on farms near Kenton. They were in the Hancock county jail at Findlay today awaiting the filing of bank robbery charges.

One Found in Night Club

McMahon was arrested in a Kenton night club about 2 a. m. Sunday and Carmean was taken into custody two hours later on a street corner in Lima, Patrolman Kratzer reported. The men, he said, had $1,260 of the loot with them at the time of their arrest, and accounted for part of the remainder by saying they had traded automobiles in Delaware on the day of the holdup, giving $365 cash difference.

The automobile trade in Delaware followed unsuccessful efforts of the holdup suspects to trade cars a short time earlier in Ridgewood and Latlue, Patrolman Kratzer said. At Ridgewood, an automobile dealer who formerly had known Carmean when both men worked in Kenton, struck up a conversation with Carmean about his former work, and during the conversation learned his name. The dealer, who said he was made suspicious by the nervous actions of the two men and by the fact the car they were driving answered the description of the one used in the bank holdup, called Capt. DeWees at Marion late Friday and gave him the "tip."

Notifies Kratzer

Knowing an exhaustive investigation would have to be made to justify arrest of the suspects, Capt. DeWees immediately got in touch with Patrolman Kratzer, who went to Kenton Friday night to begin a checkup with the help of Kenton police.

Friday's investigation in Kenton resulted in a theory, Kratzer said, that McMahon and Carmean had worked together on the job, although the men were not known in Kenton to have been companions.

Efforts to locate the pair and take them into custody were delayed until late Saturday night when McMahon appeared in Kenton after having been absent from there several days. Kratzer, Capt. Cliff Bailey of the Kenton police and Lieut. John W. Krichbaum, district officer of the highway patrol, located McMahon at the Black Cat night club in Kenton in company with another man and two women. Krichbaum guarded outside while Kratzer and Capt. Bailey took McMahon and his companion into custody. Kratzer said McMahon had a suitcase containing $441 in cash and a revolver. He also was driving a new automobile the pair had obtained at Delaware.

Kratzer said McMahon, at the Kenton police station, made a complete confession of the Mt. Blanchard bank robbery and also said he and Carmean had robbed a filling station at Ada. He implicated Carmean in the bank holdup and said he was to meet Carmean within a few hours at a street corner in Lima.

Found On Street Corner

Capt. Bailey and Patrolman Bluemlein of the Findlay station of the highway patrol went to Lima and found Carmean carrying a suit case, standing on a street corner. They took him into custody and said the suitcase he carried contained $616 in cash.

Kratzer said Carmean admitted his part in the bank and filling station holdups. The officers said the suspects had considered going to Florida.

"PRODIGAL" THEME OF REVIVAL SERMON

Calvary Evangelist Preaches Three Times; Congregations Are Large.

Three large congregations heard Evangelist Forman Lincicome of Gary, Ind., deliver revival messages yesterday at Calvary Evangelical church. Last night, in speaking on "The Prodigal at the Swine Trough," he said in part:

"One trouble with us in our material things is that they outrun our ability to manage them until we have more brawn than brain, more goods than goodness, more avoirdupois than ideas and more notions than convictions.

"The prodigal not only lost his money, he lost his honor. To be without money is no disgrace, but to be without honor is a shame, for it is bad enough when sin wrecks your business, but far worse when it wrecks your life.

"The prodigal was of the opinion that in order to be happy he would have to go far from home. When you see anyone seeking happiness outside himself you may be sure he has never found it, for true happiness comes from within us. It does not depend on outward circumstances but inward harmony and is only possible to an evenly balanced and properly adjusted soul."

Among the subjects announced for the remainder of the week are "The Unpardonable Sin," "One Thing the Bible Condemns," "Three Heavens," "A Quartet of Fools," "A Corner Lot in Sodom" and "The Day of All Days."

COLUMBUS PASTOR GIVES CONFERENCE TALK HERE

Dr. Cotton Speaks on Marriage at Annual Marion Presbytery Young People's Meeting.

The importance of young people going to the marriage altar with clean minds, clean bodies and clean souls if a Christian home is to be established, was stressed by Dr. J. Harry Cotton of the Broad Street Presbyterian church in Columbus when he spoke last night at the Forest Lawn Presbyterian church at the close of the annual conference of young people of the Marion presbytery.

Dr. Cotton blamed the failure of many marriages on young people who go to the altar "satisfied with so-called thrills." It is necessary, he said, that young people after the wedding be congenial and tolerant and that they be kindred souls in the matter of religion. He discussed his subject from both the psychological and physiological sides.

Approximately 150 young people from First and Forest Lawn churches of Marion and churches in Crestline, Galion, Mt. Gilead, Chesterville, Bucyrus, Delaware, Ostrander, Bellefontaine and Urbana attended the afternoon session and the church was nearly filled for Dr. Cotton's address last night. The conference opened at 2:30 p. m. with a song service led by W. E. Orcutt of Marion and a welcome to the guests by Roy Converse, a member of Forest Lawn church who is attending Centre college in Danville, Ky. Eugene Patton of Urbana responded. Discussion groups were led by Rev. Carl Winter of Mt. Gilead, Rev. George S. Ager of Marysville, Rev. Paul Gauss of Bellefontaine, Mr. Hagen of Bucyrus and Rev. Clarance Gee of Delaware. Rev. Patterson presided as toastmaster during the dinner hour.

The banner for the largest attendance of out-of-town young people was awarded the Bucyrus delegation. Forest Lawn church of Marion had the largest delegation present.

Merchants Warned To Be on Guard Against Racket.

Procedure for the short change racket as explained by Mr. Fields is that a large bill, usually of $10 or $20 denomination is used for a small purchase. After the purchase has been completed and the change has been received the short-changer asks to pay the cost of the article in the correct change and requests

ELKS MEMORIAL SERVICE PAYS TRIBUTE TO FIVE

Judge of Supreme Court Speaks on Annual Lodge Program; Michel Gives Eulogy.

The memories of members whose deaths occurred in the last year was honored when Marion Lodge No. 32, B. P. O. Elks, joined other lodges in the nation in the annual memorial day exercises yesterday.

Friends of the lodge members joined in the exercises held last night in the Elks lodgeroom with Judge Will P. Stephenson of West Union, a member of the Ohio supreme court, as the memorial day speaker. The eulogy was delivered by Paul D. Michel, prosecuting attorney of Marion county. Music for the program was provided by Landon's orchestra.

Roscoe V. Rank, exalted ruler, presided and the memorial ritual was conducted by Eugene H. Gunder, esquire, R. E. Prettyman, chaplain, T. A. O'Leary, secretary, W. T. Buchanan, leading knight, Karl W. Konkle, loyal knight, Theodore B. Ochs, lecturing knight.

Five Die in Year

Members whose memories were honored in the ceremony were John F. Leffler, Amber W. Somerlot, Thomas A. Powers, Earl C. Smith and Earle R. Wilson.

Taking service to others as the keynote of his address Judge Stephenson pointed out to his audience that if life is to be made worth the living, duties can not be shirked nor natural obligations to one's fellowman shifted. "Service is the rent we pay, the human body is our tenant and we should so live so that we can surrender the lease, quit the premises at any time, without notice to any one," he said. "Service to others is the yardstick by which God and man measure," he continued, "and a normal man, leading a normal life can not close his eyes to the need of his brother and hope to go unscathed."

Birth, life and death follow one another in natural sequence, he pointed out. Continuing he said: "Birth gives to us our greatest love, maternal love; we all love life but all of life is not in the living, much of it is in doing. Life teaches its own lesson; if there were no bitter, there would be no sweet; if you can take your cup of gall and drink its dregs with a smile then you have learned to live. Death is life's grand climax, man's most interesting experience. Whenever we cease to mourn for those we love we are becoming stoic, cynics, brutes."

In paying tributes to the members whose memories were honored in the service he said: "I can only say that words are weak when our hearts are bowed low in grief, but they do carry to us the knowledge that in our bereavement there are friends who in a small way are sharing our sorrows. As Elks, their virtues will be emblazoned on tablets of gold, their faults written in the sand." He charged the lodge members to rededicate their services to the tenets of the order of Elkdom, be more tolerant of the rights and views of their fellowman, and help the weak with human warmth and kindness.

Tribute to Founders

Mr. Michel in delivering the eulogy paid a high tribute to the founders of the lodge and the work carry on the work and ideals of history of the lodge, and challenged the younger members to carry on the work and ideals of those who preceded them.

Music for the service included an overture, "In the Garden," Miles, "The Rosary," Nevin, and "Lead Kindly Light," by the orchestra, and a selection, "The Vacant Chair," by James Brown, accompanied by the orchestra. The audience joined in singing "Auld Lang Syne" at the close of the ceremonies.

Preceding the exercises Judge Stephenson was an honor guest at dinner at Hotel Marion. Covers were laid for 25 including the chair officers of the lodge and attorneys who have served as exalted rulers of the organization.

GOOD COMEDY, STAGE SHOW ON PROGRAM AT PALACE TONIGHT

A highly satisfactory comedy feature and Jimmy Hodges "Miami Nites" tabloid revue behind the footlights comprise the two-day entertainment bill which opened at the Palace theater Sunday.

The picture, "It's In the Air," stars Jack Benny of stage and radio fame, and features in the excellent supporting cast Ted Healy, Una Merkel, Nat Pendleton, Mary Carlisle, Grant Mitchell and that old-time comedy star, Al Shean of Gallagher and Shean.

In spite of Jack Benny's reputation and undisputed ability to carry the lead in just about any presentation that headlines comedy, Ted Healy makes a clean steal of the picture.

Thousands of theater patrons saw the Marx Brothers and laughed at their antics when they played the Palace a few days ago. Not so many thousands will see "It's In the Air," and how! a whole lot harder at the combined efforts of Benny and Healy. The latter is downright funnier than the Marx Brothers and almost any other seven comics, excepting W. C. Fields, rolled into one.

The story of "It's In the Air," is an original one by Byron Morgan and Lew Lipton, telling of a pair of gamblers (Benny and Healy) whose scruples have dwindled to practically nothing. The boys wind up at a California resort, get set to fleece a flock of wealthy suckers through a stratosphere flight, and climax the picture by making the flight when Benny "reforms" to please his estranged wife. The flight is screamingly funny—in fact the film is funny from start to finish, with Healy getting off 16 better cracks than the widely three-sheeted Benny.

Jimmy Hodges tab revue pleased yesterday's audiences. Boasting a large and competent cast of principals, the high spot of the show is the well-drilled and attractive line of 10 girls, who turn loose several routines not usually found in the tabloids. Their big number features a version of Sally Rand's bubble dance by a blond tagged "Nina."

Other outstanding acts are "Jerome and Boze," an almost sensational dance and acrobatic team; Millie and Donna, dance team; Tazone, who does things with a harmonica; Don Gray, tenor; the Musical Johnstons, xylophonists; and Jimmy Hodges, a different type comic and master-of-ceremonies. The production is backed by a six-piece stage band.—G. H. M.

Your Health

BY DR. R. S. COPELAND

Measles.

MEASLES IS one of the most contagious of all the diseases of childhood. It is often regarded as a trivial thing, when in reality it may prove to be an extremely serious infection.

Many mothers believe that it is best to "expose the child to measles and have it over with." This is entirely the wrong attitude to assume. It is too great a risk to take. What may prove to be a mild case of measles in one child may turn out to be quite serious in another. The disease is especially dangerous to infants and to children under five years of age. If he can be guarded from it the child is indeed fortunate.

Measles leaves the victim in a weakened condition. The disease leads to a lowered resistance and susceptibility to other infectious conditions. It is because of the complications, such as pneumonia, broncho-pneumonia or influenza, that we dread this common affliction of early life.

Let me warn against the dangers of self-diagnosis. It is well to be familiar with the symptoms of measles, of course. But it is well to remember that even the doctor may be uncertain about the diagnosis in the first stages. Merely because the child has a red, spotted rash is not sufficient reason to assume the disorder is measles. There are other diseases that have spotted rashes.

To be on the safe side call your doctor to confirm or dispel your suspicions. Until the physician arrives or until the diagnosis is definitely made, keep the child in bed and away from other children. This will prevent the spread of the disease to others, and help your youngster to escape unpleasant complications.

The early symptoms of measles are often confused with those of a cold. The sufferer complains of inflamed eyes, running nose, cough and fever.

The rash does not appear until about the fifth or seventh day. Usually it is first seen along the sides of the face, behind the ears and on the neck. It soon covers the entire body.

Keep the child in bed and protect the eyes from glaring lights. It is not necessary to have the room in absolute darkness. Place the head of the bed to the light, so that only reflected light reaches the patient.

Proper ventilation of the room is extremely important. This is accomplished by placing a small screen before the window, perhaps three feet from the wall. The screen serves as a reflector of air as well as of light.

NEVER MIND THE LADY

By David Garth

(Copyright, 1935, by David Garth)

SYNOPSIS: On his way to the capital to see what is delaying an important shipment of equipment to be used in his engineering project up the yellow Paiva river, Terry Willett stops in Pranjamire and rescues an old friend, Tommy Speede, from a Portuguese assassin. He is now at the American embassy in the capital demanding to see George Fox, the attache. And Fox is in conversation with a most charming girl whose name is Allaire.

CHAPTER SIX
Fateful Meeting

WILLETT, all right.

"Where is he now?"

He was in the billiard room of the Legation Club, waiting for Novaes to come back and get his arm broken unless the Senor Fox appeared.

"Is he smiling?" Fox asked surprisingly.

Novaes looked positively astonished.

"But yes, Senor," he returned. "With the mouth, yes. But with the eyes, ah, no, Senor. Name of a name, Senor Fox, but he would have broken the arm, by damn!"

"Smiling, eh?" Fox muttered, as if starting to solve a geometry problem. "Means he's going into action. He's going to sock somebody."

He turned quickly to Allaire, shaking his head ruefully.

"Feel like a fireman," he commented. "There's a third alarm in the billiard room. There are all kinds of smiles in this world—"

"He's going to sock somebody," Allaire was looking at him interestedly. "Not you, by any chance, Ambassador?"

"No, but he mustn't sock anybody," he explained. "He told me that if he ever intended to start any trouble with the coffee company big shots, he'd let me know first. He's just politely keeping his word."

He held out his hand.

"May I take you in before I go to wave the lamp of reason in front of a fighting machine?"

There was a queer smile on her lips as she leisurely clasped slim hands behind her head.

"You know," she said reflectively, "I didn't come on this Odyssey to see Steve Perry play polo and Ray play the fool. I had ideas, absurd perhaps, of gentlemen with sideburns righting their wrongs and wronging their rights.

"So far I bear away memories of a snake farm, some giraffe-necked women or something, and a mountain in the middle of a harbor. But," she went on with that rare sparkling smile, "if I can also bear away the memory of you waving the lamp of reason in front of a fighting machine who wants to sock somebody, the trip's a success."

Fox felt something go shooting up and down his spinal column. He'd felt the same way when as a sophomore he'd swallowed the Kidwell in his Hunt Vale game.

He knew he was on edge. Who wouldn't be this country on the brink of revolution?

But he had never had his opinion before—it was the sudden savage conviction he had that this girl was to him like the dynamite-mad of civil strife.

Terry came swinging down the path.

Both awaited—sparks! The top of a green hill blown off by a hitherto unsuspected volcano—the rise of a tide that had long threatened to sweep past boundaries.

Coolly reckless, cynically defiant—this lovely mocking girl was a far cry in the wilderness from the child who had shown her heart, as a thoroughbred paused in agony before her.

"You want to meet him?" he said a little vaguely.

She lit a cigaret and flicked the match dexterously past Novaes' ear. Then she leaned back in the same careless posture he had found her.

"Darling, if anything is going to happen around here I'm sitting in. Heaven only knows I've wanted to sock somebody, many times myself."

Willett might be drunk—

"You've served your arrest, Novaes," he told the rosser. "Ask the tall red head to come here."

He came swinging down a garden walk, tall, clad in immaculate white duck, bareheaded—slit to knees of red tape and function, with red tapes and tassels of the Club trying to shake out of the bought of a hat.

"Allaire, Miss Allaire—" and then paused to stare past the attache.

The girl watched him, smoke from the cigaret between her fingers curling up past her cheek.

"The Foreign Service," Willett remarked with a brief-appearing grin at Fox, "is something I'll have to look into."

Fox smiled himself. Ask Terry Willett or some of those other hard-jawed builders down here thousands of miles from home, what they thought of the Foreign Service and the answer would probably make the secretary of state blush into his portfolio.

"Take a good look at him, Allaire," he told the girl. "Tomorrow morning he might be in jail."

"Is that the penalty," she inquired, "for socking somebody?"

"It all depends," said Fox. "Allaire West, Terry. She loves to throw rocks through greenhouses and ride 90 miles an hour."

Willett jammed his hands in his coat pockets and regarded her intently. As she drew on her cigaret, the slight glow traced the short straight line of her nose, deepened the shadows of her eyes, and Willett—suddenly felt as though a cool breeze had passed his forehead as he watched a fuse hole drilled through solid rock with the temperature a hundred and six in the shade.

Something, intangible, elusive, that he felt once in a while, in the sun rising behind mountains or the rhythm of native music in the quiet cool of evening, but could never explain.

"What's on your mind, old son?" It was Fox's voice.

Willett saw it again, the slimy yellow Paiva. He swung back to the quiet-voiced attache.

"Hilder," he said tersely, "That Spig shipping agent has my shipment buried in a warehouse on a dock at Rosina B. It's been there six weeks."

There was a silence. Terry nodded at the girl.

"The penalty for socking somebody," he informed her, "is jail. Take a good look at me—"

"I will," Allaire returned promptly. "And I'll place my bet. Step up to bat, George."

Fox took out his cigaret case, turned it absently around in his hands, and stuck it back in his pocket.

"If they're putting anything queer," he said, "we'll soon check up. Sit tight a couple of days and let me help you handle this."

"Tush," said Willett, "start a file of communications about me." He shook his head. "Can't be done, George."

Terry starts for the docks, tomorrow.

The Marry-Go-Round

BY HELEN ROWLAND

BUSINESS GIRL DE LUXE

Why men like the modern business girl:

Because she does not get on their nerves, does not ask unnecessary questions and, above all, does not try to use sex-appeal around the office.

Because she is calm, collected and serene—without being hard-boiled.

Because a man can take her out to lunch or dinner, without the fear of being vamped, ogled, jollied or cajoled.

Because she never stages a scene or goes in for "emotional appeal," during office hours.

Because she always wears smart clothes, but does not come around the office deluged with lipstick, flaunting bare arms and teetering on four-inch heels.

Because she can think like a man—and yet act and talk like a woman. A well-trained brain, but a 100 per cent feminine heart and intuition.

Because he is not afraid of her. He knows that she will not propose to him, nor take advantage of his weaker moments.

Because he can trust her better than he can himself to mail a letter, size up a customer, shoo away bores, time-killers and dangerous women. And because he can trust her better than himself, to keep his dates straight, bury his secrets and to remember the date of his wedding anniversary.

Because she is always so well-groomed and fresh-looking from the tips of her toes to her perfect permanent, yet so sort of dainty and feminine and easy on the eyes.

Because she never has frowsy hair, run-down heels, or crooked stocking seams or uses cheap perfume.

Because she knows all the answers—but I doesn't try to spring them on a man.

Word from Headquarters.

Postmaster General Farley, who has taken a swing around the country, says he is disappointed because he expected to find something to worry about and didn't. Eighteen states, he feels certain, are in the bag. Mr. Farley has visited them personally and knows what he is talking about. Ohio, incidentally, is in his list.

Apparently, the postmaster general hasn't heard about the 15 per cent theory yet, or he wouldn't exude so much confidence. The 15 per cent theory is based on a study of the popular vote in the 1932 election in which Mr. Roosevelt had a popular majority of only about seven million votes out of almost 40,000,000. If 15 per cent of the voters who favored Mr. Roosevelt had voted for Herbert Hoover, the popular vote would have been virtually a tie.

In six states, a shift of only 10 per cent would have put the states in the Republican column. Those states, combined with the six states which were left in the Republican column, would have given Mr. Hoover only 154 electoral votes, compared with Mr. Roosevelt's 337. Thus, it is concluded that a mere 10 per cent shift away from Mr. Roosevelt next November wouldn't do any harm.

A 15 per cent shift, on the other hand, would be disastrous. If one voter out of every seven who voted for Mr. Roosevelt in 1932 were to vote for the Republican candidate in 1936 and if all the 1932 Republican voters were to stay in line, the G. O. P. would have an even chance of winning the election. Why does all this speculation seem important?

Postmaster General Farley would deny that it is important, and he might be right. But it happens that the current Literary Digest poll shows approximately a 20 per cent defection from Mr. Roosevelt. Perhaps Mr. Farley didn't look closely enough for the trouble he didn't find.

Magic at $14.95

Leading Paris dressmakers, selecting the 20 best dressed woman in the world, chose 10 Americans. Americans are pleased.

It's no surprise for them to be told they are blessed beings in the matter of clothing. Evidence is all around them, on the street, in the display windows, in public places and even in the kitchen.

Something the Paris dressmakers should look into when they get around to it is the fact that millions of American women who have anywhere from a few dollars to a few hundred dollars a year to spend on their outfits seem able to turn themselves out as attractively as the fortunate few who spend from $10,000 to $50,000 a year on clothes—the range named by the dressmakers as the one in which all the world's 20 best dressed women do their spending.

But maybe the Paris dressmakers wouldn't be interested in the women who manage to look like a million dollars on $14.95. On second thought, it's a cinch they wouldn't. That probably explains why so many Americans think Paris dressmakers don't amount to much.

More Ships.

In harmony with the new tone of disillusionment which is the current style for international observations, Americans are chanting sadly that the naval conference which convenes this week is doomed to failure. That viewpoint necessitates a definition of failure.

The conference will not be by any stretch of the imagination a conference for the reduction of naval armament. The circumstances are too well known to bear repetition. Great Britain wants more ships. Japan wants parity with the United States. The United States is determined to build up to parity with Great Britain. Germany will build up to 30 per cent of British strength. France feels it must match Germany's strength. Italy wants to expand its navy, in line with its general program of expansion.

There will be no talk of reduction, therefore. Rather, the conference will be a meeting in which the various participating governments will feel out the views and policies of other governments for the purpose of coming to an agreement on what will be possible and what will be impossible in the direction of expansion.

It might be called a conference for the regularization of naval armament. The primary aim of all parties concerned will be to obtain the right to build more ships, but the aim of the conference will be to limit the construction of ships.

If there were no conference, if there were no naval treaty and if the naval powers of the world all acted entirely on their own responsibility, would matters be better or worse than they are under the existing arrangement? It is recalled that naval limitations were brought into being to control rapid and disturbing expansions of fleets. Therefore, it would seem impossible to call the coming conference a failure. With all the faults which it embodies, it still is an improvement over the old method. It does no harm, and in the long view it probably is beneficial in comparison with independent action.

Prospectus.

President Roosevelt's Atlanta speech, revealing the line of popular appeal which will be followed in the campaign, demonstrates to his critics and opponents that defeating him is going to be a harder job than some of them have been believing it was going to be.

Mr. Roosevelt obviously plans to glean as many votes as he can from the conservative field. But he will not cultivate votes in that field. Cultivation will be practiced intensively in a larger field—the same field Mr. Roosevelt cultivated in 1932 with his appeal to the forgotten man.

In 1932, Mr. Roosevelt's new deal enlisted the support of many voters who are classified now with conservatives. A majority of those voters have turned critical of his administration, which accounts for the loss of Roosevelt strength disclosed in polls of popular opinion. The high point of the President's popularity has been passed, but Mr. Roosevelt still commands a wide following.

The slogan of the new deal campaign in 1936 apparently is going to be "Progress." That is, President Roosevelt declared in Atlanta, a better word than "recovery." He spoke of the boom years as an "orgy of prosperity," thereby discrediting the terms of recovery as laid down by the opposition to his administration. It is not that kind of recovery he wants. So far, at least, he has not been getting it.

The best defense is a good offense, particularly in politics. Critics who imagined they could maneuver the Roosevelt administration into a defensive position have been challenged by Mr. Roosevelt's Atlanta speech, in which there is no suggestion of apology, but only an aggressive tone of attack. To many it may seem that such a speech evades the real problems of the Roosevelt administration—waste, unsound fiscal policy, centralization of authority and the threat to individual freedom. Mr. Roosevelt, it should be remembered, is conducting a campaign for reelection.

Conquest.

Men have dreamed about the conquest of the air ever since they discovered the secrets of mechanical flight. In a third of a century aviation has progressed from a stage of crude and dangerous experimentation to a highly developed science in which nothing is left to guesswork.

There have been many courageous deeds in the history of flight and many real heroes. Behind the adventures and the adventurers have been hundreds and thousands of unknown and unsung men whose labor and persistence have made progress not only possible but inevitable. Fortunately, it is this group which now is coming into attention.

The Pacific flight of the China Clipper represents the beginning of an era in aviation. The daredevils and the stunters have had their day. Henceforth, it will be the technicians who will carry aviation forward. In the flight of the China Clipper technicians were foremost. There were no heroes.

Rather, there were dozens of men whose labor and skill were drawn upon months and years to make it possible for a huge ship to fly from the western coast of the United States to China and, in the course of time, onward to Australia—not merely to fly with a chance of success but to fly with virtually positive assurance of success. So arduous and complex were preparations for the first experimental flight, made last summer, that the flight, itself, was almost incidental. The first regular flight made last week was scarcely more exciting than the passage of a fast train across the United States. Much remains to be done, but the conquest of the air is beyond the stage of chance at last.

FIRST COUNTY FAIRS

The first fairs in Marion county were held in Copeland's woods in Ballentine's addition on ground leased for that purpose. The first report of any fair is dated Nov. 19, 1851, at which time the Marion County Agricultural society, as it was known, had received for membership $116, from the county treasury $62.50, from members to whom premiums had been awarded $16, making a total of $194.50.

The report showed that $27 had been distributed in premiums on horses, $45 on cattle, $20 on sheep and $40 on swine. In the display of fruits and vegetables the awards were as follows: apples, first one dollar, second 50 cents; onions, first and second, 50 cents each; turnips beets, pumpkins and flowers, 25 cents each. An award of 50 cents was made for the best and greatest variety of vegetables shown.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2—Diary: Out in a whistling gale, walking backward mostly to catch my breath, and in a shop slapped a fellow on the back I thought to be Gene Markley. But was a young priest and not in a lifetime have I reddened so furiously. Then to sit awhile with Joe Moore.

A letter from William Faversham today enthusing about the movies recalled his vivid final scene in "The Squaw Man," which affected me emotionally more than anything I ever saw in the theater. So with my lady to Dobbs Ferry to see Somerset Maugham, week-ending with Messmore and Kitty Kendall.

Glancing Backward

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Wednesday, Dec. 2, 1925.

It was reported at Harrisburg, Pa., that Gov. Pinchot was virtually sure to call a special session of the Pennsylvania legislature in an effort to settle a serious situation between anthracite operators and miners. The operators had refused to accept the governor's peace plan to end a wage controversy.

Dr. E. H. Raffenaperger was in Columbus attending a meeting of the Ohio Dental society.

I. T. Hickman & Son, Marion county hog raisers, were credited with an outstanding record at the International livestock exhibition in Chicago. They had received 36 awards.

A benefit ball and bridge party was given in The Star auditorium by the Lecture-Recital club. Mrs. H. K. Mouser, general committee chairman, was assisted by Miss Marian McNeil and Mrs. C. L. Rutherford.

Hess, Ohio State guard, was among the all-American first team selections of Norman E. Brown, International News Sports writer.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Thursday, Dec. 2, 1915.

Italy's foreign minister signed a pact in which it was agreed that none of the entente Allies would make a separate peace.

The commandants at the great United States military arsenal at Rock Island, Ill., reported to Washington that several attempts had been made by plotters to destroy the place. As a result a small army of guards was stationed on the reservation where the arsenal was located.

A news dispatch from Findlay reported that Thomas C. Mahon of Kenton was mentioned as a probable candidate for the Democratic congressional nomination in the Eighth district, opposing Congressman John A. Key, candidate for a third term.

James Freer, one of the oldest passenger engineers on the Kent division of the Erie, moved his family from Galion to Marion. He had purchased a home at 628 Girard avenue.

Heads of local lodges elected included J. W. Freshour, noble grand of Wayside I. O. O. F. lodge, Mrs. Mary Murphy, president of the Protected Home circle, H. H. Ridenbaugh, captain of Marion company, Uniform Rank, Knights of Pythias, and Mrs. H. L. Brobeck, chief ranger of the Companions of the Foresters.

Mary Alice, 17-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Busler of Mottral, died as a result of having swallowed strychnine tablets she had found while playing about the house.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 — Best business seers here feel reasonably certain the current general improvement will continue through December. They are doing no guessing beyond that.

What they will not say, but seem to sense, is that a moderate readjustment reaction is likely after the turn of the year. But all their trusted harbingers of 1936 suggest there is no logical way for business to go into 1936 but up. For instance, the new force behind the current uplift is the improvement in the heavy goods (iron, steel, metals, lumber, glass, the things which go into machinery, building, furniture, automobiles).

This improvement can be traced broadly to new general bestirring of demand for that type of goods. Two opposite lines of it are notable, automobiles and residential building. Autos may be reaching near a new year peak, but building certainly is not. It is still so low that its major influence on general business uplift is certainly all ahead of it.

Confidence

If you will trace these two examples to the full depth of their roots you will find that both spring from increasing confidence. Purchasers of homes and autos are sufficiently confident of their existing income to create a stronger buying demand. Builders of homes and autos see a prospect of profits are becoming more confident in planning their production. This tendency has been noted in autos before, but not until comparatively recently in building or in other corresponding heavy lines (machine tools, agricultural implements, cash registers).

This buying and profit confidence is not yet solidly normal. The only thing which might reasonably be expected to hinder its growth next year, however, would be something nationally depressing.

A lot of such possibilities exist, but they have been generally recognized for a long time (unbalanced budget, bonus, monetary situation, Townsend movement). No one seems to be much excited about them. At least, the growth of confidence has been accomplished straight in the face of them.

Chart

A balanced view of the way things are going now may be gained from the monthly business chart used by government officials and economists. It shows a continuous improvement in all lines since May, as follows:

(NOTE—Each figure is seasonally adjusted and represents the percentage of normal activity existing at times stated. Normal is 100 based on the averages for the three years 1923-25).

Employment

The growth of employment and pay rolls in the heavy goods industries lately is a significant step, because that is where the bulk of unemployment lies.

Miss Perkins' bureau of labor statistics has figures indicating that employment in durable goods averaged about 75 per cent this October and about 63 a year ago; pay rolls about 66 this October, compared with 46 last year.

The nondurables show 96.4 per cent employment this October, as compared with 95 last October. Their pay rolls were 85.2 this October, as compared with 79.6 last year.

The purchasing power improvement of the last year has therefore been mainly in durables. There is plenty of room left for improvement in that line.

Prices

An interesting thing about the stock market rise is that it has been accomplished without any corresponding increase in general market prices. The most recent private computation indicates that stock market prices are up about 38 per cent since last March. The index of wholesale prices is almost the same as last March; they are up exactly nine-tenths of one point.

If inflation has anything to do with the general prices, there would seem to be little of it in the existing situation; at least little has been added since March.

By JAMES McMULLIN

NEW YORK, Dec. 2—Sen. L. J. Dickinson of Iowa recently paid an unobtrusive visit to New York to be looked over as a presidential candidate by the G. O. P. piper payers. He is mentioned in informed quarters as the possible Harding of '36. Dickinson has an edge over his senatorial rivals in being presented as a Simon pure Republican. He has no pro-new *deal votes to explain—which can*not be said of Vandenberg, McNary or Borah.

Backstagers who pull the Republican strings have evolved a tryout process for their candidates. Each of them in turn is trotted out for a whirl in the public eye, then is put back in storage to await developments. Frank Knox had his whirl a while back. Gov. Alf Landon of Kansas is getting his now. Presumably Dickinson is due for one in the near future if he passes New York inspection. Con. Hamilton Fish has also had a whirl—but in his case he performed the acrobatic feat of whirling himself.

Keen observers remark that this process creates cabinet material as well as presidential possibilities —so consolation prizes are in sight (assuming a G. O. P. victory) for those who didn't get nominated.

A word of caution is in order to those who might naturally figure that the parade of candidates means party leaders are already seriously debating their final choice of Roosevelt's rival. Nothing could be further from their thoughts. All they are trying to do now is to mark the cards for future reference and slip them back in the file.

The Republicans have one advantage over the Democrats as the '36 contest approaches. They have been so completely out of the picture for the last three years that they've had ample opportunity to concentrate on planning their comeback without having their attention diverted. Consequently their campaign will be thoroughly charted and their ammunition in first class shape by the time the real scrap starts.

To the question, "With whom will you bank Roosevelt?" party chiefs point out that they have an embarrassment of riches. The variety of candidates leaves backstagers much freer to choose their standard-bearer in accordance with the political situation at convention time. For instance, if President Roosevelt's popularity has shrunk appreciably by then they can pick a man to fit their own specifications without so much regard for his "liberal" appeal. If the President is still riding high they can name another whose liberal qualifications stand out more.

Permanent

Informed New York sources insist that if Mr. Roosevelt wants to show any real progress toward a balanced federal budget he must definitely make up his mind to cut down on Harry Hopkins' emergency relief administration or Harold Ickes' public works administration or both. Experience indicates that public works are a slow and costly method of putting people to work, so Ickes is probably the more likely victim—although Hopkins' projects haven't exactly turned out to be so many balls of fire either.

A coordinated housing program will undoubtedly emerge from the many conferences being held on the subject. But it will not have any appreciable effect on those twin demons that plague the new deal—relief and reemployment. It will take a long time to develop and cannot possibly be expected to get in stride within a year.

Keen observers marvel at the way Harry Hopkins manages to remain a White House favorite considering how strenuously some of his colleagues criticize his policies.

Hail

A point worth noting about the rising commodity price levels which prevail almost everywhere in the world is that they reflect restrictions on production rather than credit expansion or the deliberate cheapening of currencies. Therefore they cannot be considered truly inflationary.

This means there is less danger of runaway price gains than there would be if they derived from a monetary *cause. In many com*modities the rise could be slowed up—or even halted—by broadening allocations of permissible production. This device has already been tried quite successfully with tin.

Dividends

November was a grand month for stockholders. Recent figures show that 93 corporations declared extra dividends during the month, 58 authorized back payments on cumulated dividends, 25 paid initial dividends, 20 resumed them. 25 raised dividend rates and 12 declared stock dividends. This happy evidence of recovery should boom business for Santa Claus.

Prophets

Federal Reserve Chairman Marriner Eccles may go down in Wall Street history as a major prophet on the strength of his recent bullish predictions. Some New Yorkers are unkind enough to think that was his main motive. But Eccles isn't the first federal official to register as a cheerful stock market oracle. Joe Kennedy beat him to it several weeks ago and New York hopes that Joe gets most of the credit when the laurels are handed out.

The current national income of the United States is estimated at $60,000,000,000 a year and still climbing...Industry has learned to cut costs and show good profits without increased volume....One thing the SEC margin rules have accomplished is to stop the dangerous practice of pyramiding paper profits.

DR. EDSON B. OLDS

Vallandigham was not the only Ohio opponent of the war in the '60's who gave the government authorities so much trouble that arrest followed—or even more annoying. Edson B. Olds, a Lancaster physician, was a bold declaimer against the conduct of the war by the government.

For his utterances Dr. Olds was arrested by the military authorities and was held a prisoner in Ft. Lafayette. He was not formally tried and after a few weeks was released but his detention caused a popular sensation.

Dr. Olds was a vindicative man and he sought retaliation upon Gov. Brough, whom he blamed for the arrest. He planned to have the governor arrested and before he could raise bail lodge him in the Fairfield county jail. But the plan failed as the governor obtained a writ of habeas corpus in the Franklin county courts and nothing was done with the indictment.

ICE BRINGS BOOST IN TRAFFIC MISHAPS

Four-Inch Snow Fall Adds to Hazard of Driving, Streets, Roads Cindered

The number of minor traffic accidents due to icy pavements increased over the week-end. No serious accidents were reported in Marion county and today all major highways were in good condition, according to a report from C. G. Porterfield, maintenance superintendent of the state highway department in Marion county. At least six minor mishaps occurred at Prospect and Columbia streets Saturday night.

State highway officials reported this morning that federal routes 30S and 23 and state route 4 have been sanded their entire length in Marion county and that all state highways in the county have been cindered at danger points. Street intersections in the city also have been cindered.

Four inches of snow which fell Saturday and Sunday kept high way workers busy until early this morning clearing the roads and cindering dangerous places. Low temperature recorded yesterday was 14 degrees as compared to a low of 2 degrees registered a year ago. High yesterday was 32 degrees and a year ago 30 degrees.

The weather man's prediction of colder temperatures tonight, but with a rising thermometer tomorrow gave Marion county residents hope for an early break in the season's first cold spell.

Coach and Mrs. Carl Cramer escaped injury when their car skidded on the icy pavement and hit a telephone pole near Delaware last night. They were returning from Columbus when the accident occurred and continued to Marion in the car which was slightly damaged.

RETURNS RECEIVED IN SEAL CAMPAIGN

Those Who Have No Stamps May Get Them from League Officers.

Marion city and county residents who did not receive Christmas Health seals Friday or Saturday and who wish to help in the county's fight to prevent the spread of tuberculosis may procure seals at the office of Dr. E. L. Brady on South Main street, president of the Marion County Anti-Tuberculosis league or at the county health office in the Marion building on South Main street.

Definite figures were not available this morning but those in charge of the sale said the response by mail Saturday was better than on the first day of the 1934 sale.

Those who have received stamps are urged to send their money immediately to Mrs. George W. Lish of 222 South State street, seal sale chairman.

After the stamps have been purchased the league asks that they be placed on letters, cards and packages which will go through the mails, as a means of spreading the anti-tuberculosis message. Mrs. Lish and Mrs. W. E. Miley of South Seffner avenue also will be glad to furnish stamps to those persons whose names were not on the league's mailing list.

and I don't want to see it impaired."

State Finance Director M. Ray Allison said he had completed arrangements to pay $500,000 of the obligations and insisted that the state had until midnight before it could be in default.

Assistant State Treasurer Ray Martin disagreed with Allison. He asserted the state would be in default if payment were not made before 2 p. m. the close of the banking day and declared the treasurer lacked authorization to pay the notes.

Two Firms Ask Payment

The Detroit Savings bank and the Guaranty Trust Co. of New York City presented notes of $300,000 and $200,000 Saturday for payment. Notes on the remainder are held by Ohio interests who are not expected to demand payment for several days.

Bricker said a "real emergency exists" and that he did not believe a supreme court decision prohibiting a transfer of funds to items vetoed by the governor would apply to this case. Gov. Davey vetoed an $750,000 appropriation made by the legislature last spring to meet the obligations.

Chairman Julian Schweller, Democrat of Putnam of the house finance committee had expressed belief the court ruling would halt a plan of legislative leaders to make the appropriation from the emergency fund.

of kings sat on a red upholstered throne.

The Rome government announced 15 Ethiopians and six Italians were killed in a skirmish in the eastern Tembien area, which is north and west of Makale. The communique said mopping up operations were continuing in that section.

The play of international diplomacy was frequented by martini overtones. Reports received in London said Italian troops were being transferred from the Brenner pass on the Italo-Austrian frogtier to the Italo-French border.

Warned By French

Last week France advised Italy anything as serious as an Italian attack on the British Mediterranean fleet would bring the French government to Britain's elbow in support of the stand taken by the League of Nations.

In Rome Mussolini directed mothers and widows of the nation's war dead in an unprecedented mobilization of their neighbors for Italy's economic combat against league penalties.

The women hundreds in number formally proclaimed the advance guard to that feminine Italian army" opposing league penalties while the masculine army presses its campaign in Ethiopia. The women went into communities throughout the kingdom bearing the slogan resist."

Refers to World War

Mussolini told them as they gathered to represent committees of Italy's 94 provinces. If anyone in the glorious and tragic years of the World war when grievous news entered your homes had told you that one day the countries for which you had offered the youth of your sons would have furnished arms to the enemy which is fighting against Italian troops, you would have rejected the suggestion as one seeks to obliterate an evil dream."

While Mussolini represented Italy's former allies, informed sources in Rome said any negotiations for peace awaited the end Franco-British move.

NEW DEAL FOE JOINS IN UTILITY BATTLE

statute through congress.

In the legal struggle between the administration and utilities, the winner was not expected to be named for a year or more. Officials figured it would take that long for the courts to decide the last issue which was formally ... filed at midnight last night.

The new death utility holding company law passed last congressional session after the first engagement in the war provided that by last midnight the holding firms should be registered with the securities commission.

Refuse to Register

In almost unbroken phalanx the top rank firms stood their ground refusing to comply with a law they call unconstitutional."

There were no up-to-the-minute figures on the companies thus refusing but they included most of the large systems, with their hundreds of subsidiaries. A few major systems were yet to be accounted for in announcements by the securities commission in a day or two.

Only 53 firms were known to have complied. Most of them said they did so under protest or duress.

The securities commission insisted that registration is a mere preliminary to administration of the law which calls for regulation of the firms with unnecessary ones to be eliminated and others to be limited in their sphere of operations.

Would Lose No Rights

The commission argued that by registering the companies would surrender none of their rights to fight the law. But the concerns replied that registration would give the commission a foothold and perhaps damage the companies' legal chances.

Commission officials drew some encouragement from a decision last week by Federal Judge William H. Holly of Chicago, agreeing, with the commission's views about registration, he told trustees of the Public Utilities Securities Corp. to register reserving their constitutional rights.

Government men expressed belief some other judges might rule likewise though a Baltimore federal judge has called the act unconstitutional indicating that the companies do not have to register.

TREASURY FINANCING SENDS DEBT SOARING

$900,000,000 Issue To Boost Public Obligations to $30,500,000,000 Mark.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2—The public debt headed for a new high today as the treasury sought $900,000,000 for work relief financing and ready cash.

If the full loan is raised the debt will reach approximately $30,500,000,000.

Secretary Morgenthau's statement offered for cash subscription a $400,000,000 issue of 2¾ per cent 10-year bonds and an equal issue of 1½ per cent five-year notes.

Holders of $418,000,000 in 2¼ per cent notes maturing Dec. 15 were offered the right to exchange them for the new notes or bonds. This offering is in addition to the $900,000,000 of securities.

Full subscription of the cash offering would bring the total such borrowings since July 1 to more than $1,700,000,000. According to President Roosevelt's recent estimates this would leave about $382,000,000 to be raised during the last half of the fiscal year assuming the entire sum allocated for recovery and relief is to be spent.

Interest rates on the new issues which are technically a part of an issue placed on the market in September remain the same. The issues bear interest from Sept. 16 payable semi-annually.

Assurances recently have come from President Roosevelt that spending is soon to be kept closer to income followed by reduction of the debt.

NO CHANGE RESULTS FROM VOTE RECOUNT

Inaccuracies Discovered But Not Sufficient To Alter Original Announcement.

A recount of ballots in precinct F of the sixth ward cast in the Nov. 5 election was completed Saturday and while the check showed inaccuracies in the original count, none was so great as to alter the result of the standing of any candidate in that precinct.

The largest discrepancy was found in the count for councilman at-large. In the recount William A. Shuster Republican successful candidate, lost five votes, and Hayes L. Rogers, Republican, successful candidate, dropped four votes.

The recount showed that both Gene Hill and Dr. Frederick C. Smith should have been credited with one vote more in the mayoralty race. In remaining races discrepancies of only one or two votes were shown.

Dr. C. J. Altmaier, chairman of the Democratic central and executive committee of the county headed the list of five persons who signed the application for the recount. The others are T. J. Frericks, president of council; Marie F. Monaghan, Cleo Croman and F. L. Speck.

The primary purpose in asking for the recount, one of those who signed the application said today, was to check precinct judges and clerks and keep them on their toes to insure more accurate counting of election ballots. It is expected this will become a policy in following elections—to select a precinct and demand a recount, the signer said.

Cost of the recount, $10, is to be borne by the applicants. If a variation of two per cent or more had been found in the checkup, the county would be obliged to pay the cost.

KRATZER DROPS NET ON ROBBER SUSPECTS

and bank cashier and Miss Blanche Dunbar, his assistant, identified the prisoners at Findlay yesterday and said they would file robbery affidavits Monday.

Sheriffs Lyle Harvill of Findlay and Wilbur Mitchell of Kenton said they and state highway patrolmen went to Carmean's farm home before dawn yesterday and were greeted by W. O. Carmean, Harold's father. They quoted the father as saying:

"We've been expecting you. We suppose you're after our boy. We saw in the paper that the Mt. Blanchard bank was robbed and the boy was acting strange so we figured he done it. I figured the boy was in it so I took his picture to the Kenton bank Saturday and told them to send it to Mt. Blanchard.

Sheriff Harvill said questioning of the youths disclosed the robbery was done on impulse.

"Scared," Says Carmean

I hope to tell you I was scared," he quoted Carmean. I never seen Mt. Blanchard before. I didn't have the money long enough to know how it felt to have that much."

Did you think what might happen afterward? the sheriff asked.

Soon as it was over I knowed what was coming, he said Carmean replied.

The sheriff reported that under questioning McMahon said:

Carmean and I met Tuesday for the first time. We robbed a filling station in Ada Thursday. Friday we was just going through the town of Mt. Blanchard and seen the bank and wanted to rob it and we done it.

He detailed aimless rides through Marseilles, Richwood, Delaware, Fremont and Kenton. They traded their car for another in Delaware, giving $366 cash difference.

I don't know how we spent the rest of the money, McMahon said.

Krause said the suspects told him they had driven to LaRue immediately after the bank holdup. Friday went from there to Richwood and on to Delaware where the car trade was made. From there they went to Mt. Vernon, Mansfield and Norwalk and stayed Friday night at Clyde. They arrived in Lima late Saturday and Carmean stayed there while McMahon continued to Kenton, Krause said.

Carmean, according to news reports from Kenton, has been working for his father on a large dairy farm two and one-half miles west of Kenton. STEEL OPERATIONS REACH YEAR'S HIGH

Ingot Production 28 Per Cent Above First 11 Months of 1934, Figures Show.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O. Dec. 2—Steel works operations reached 56 per cent last week the highest point of the year said the magazine Steel in its weekly review today.

A gain of 1½ points from the preceding week set the new top figure. November as a whole, the magazine said averaged about 54.3 per cent compared with 52.1 in February the years previous high, and 39.5 per cent in November 1934.

Actual ingot production is about 28 per cent over the first 11 months last year.

Pressure for delivery of finished steel before Jan. 1 has related as one of the first consequences of automobile makers' decision not to raise first quarter prices, the magazine reported and considerable position of the tonnage except in sheets and strip for auto makers may be cancelled or deferred.

The holiday resulted partially from action by some mills in overstepping Jan. 1 as a delivery deadline. Some steelmakers consider the action merely a postponement of an advance which they feel must come some time in the first quarter.

Although auto production last week fell about 11,700 units to 85,000, full finished sheet mill operations gained several points to 78 per cent. The holiday caused the drop in auto production.

Sale of Million Hamburgers Proof of Snappy Service Popularity

Only Best Beef Is Used for Ralph's Sandwiches

Frying Without Grease Other Than That in Meat Makes Them Easily Digestible.

Over 1,000,000 hamburgers have been served by Ralph's Snappy Service since locating in Marion at 203 West Center street, four years ago. That fact alone should serve as ample proof of the popularity of these excellent 5c sandwiches.

Ralph's hamburgers have become known far and wide. Many persons living in other communities, always head for Ralph's whenever they visit Marion, because once having tasted these delicious sandwiches, they always come back for more.

Only selected cuts of beef are used for this hamburger. No cereal or other filler is added, only the pure beef being used. They are fried on a dry griddle, no grease being added except that which comes from the hamburger itself—this makes an easily digestible sandwich for young or old.

Ralph's hamburger sandwich is a balanced light lunch, containing beef, with pickle or onion for the vegetable and placed in a special bun.

Wrapped Separately

Sack orders—sandwiches ordered to take out are each wrapped in a paper napkin before being placed in a sack—this enables the sandwiches to be carried quite a distance before becoming cold. Many persons entertaining or having unexpected company often serve Ralph's hamburgers because they always please even the most particular.

Barbecue sandwiches made from selected cuts of beef are also served here at the low price of five cents.

Excellent coffee made right before your eyes is a feature of Ralph's. A fine grade of only strictly fresh coffee is used. The coffee is strictly fresh because it is received the day after being roasted—a new shipment being received each week. It is ground only as it is used thus insuring its freshness, because coffee stays fresh as long as the coffee bean remains whole. Pure cream is served with the coffee which adds to its taste. Try a cup of Ralph's coffee and be convinced of its fine flavor.

Nestle's hot chocolate at 5c a cup is also served here, for which many calls are received daily.

Rolls for Breakfast

A wide variety of fresh rolls served with a generous portion of butter, are always on hand each morning for breakfast.

A good selection of pies is always to be found here. These pies are made special for Ralph's and many compliments have been received as to their delicious flavor and fine pastry.

Good chile made by their own recipe can be had for 10c a bowl. Proof of its goodness exists in the many requests received for it each day. Pint containers are kept on hand for persons wishing to take some home.

Excellent food, the finest coffee and very reasonable prices make Ralph's Snappy Service more popular each day.

PREPARE FOR WINTER, SAUTTER ADVISES
Super-Servvice Station Puts Autos in Proper Condition for Cold.

Even though your car is new... or in perfect mechanical condition, its manufacturer recommends that it be prepared for winter—if you are to enjoy safe, trouble-free and economical winter driving. (He wants you to receive the utmost satisfaction so you'll buy the same make of car next time.)

Like a bolt from the blue, winter strikes. If your car is not prepared something usually goes wrong...the radiator freezes, the battery won't start the motor, the gears get noisy and hard to shift. You can prevent all this if you let Sautter's Super-Service—Sinclair-ize your car now.

Here is what they do: Drain, flush and refill the transmission and differential with the correct winter lubricant, remove front wheels and repack, drain, flush and refill the crank-case with free flowing Sinclair Pennsylvania motor oil or Sinclair Opaline motor oil, clean out the rust and sludge from the radiator, put in the right amount of anti-freeze to protect your car, lubricate the chassis according to the manufacturer's instructions, test and fill the battery to the proper level, and clean and adjust the spark plugs for efficient operation. In other words they completely put your car in condition for winter driving.

Drive in and let them tell you more about this complete service. They are located at the corner of South Main and Columbia streets.

Loop radio antennae have been developed for airplanes that are asserted to solve the rain and dust static problem.

ASHLEY GRANGE HAS 43 MEMBERS

DELAWARE, O., Dec. 2—With the organization of Ashley grange completed with 43 charter members, membership in Delaware county grangue is now approximately 700, W. F. Davis of near Radnor, deputy grange master, announced. W. O. Ziegler is master of the new grange.

PLUS-CIRCULARITY PISTON RING FEATURE
Permits Proper Functioning of Motor at High Rate of Speed.

Plus-Circularity is an important feature of every Hastings Piston Ring, and is one of the reasons why Hastings Rings function exceptionally well at present day high motor speeds. To build the correct Plus-Circularity into a piston ring is one of the most difficult engineering and manufacturing tasks connected with the manufacture of fine piston rings.

Plus-Circularity in simple terms means extra tension at the points of the ring. Only rings with this important feature can operate at high speeds without ring flutter. But, Plus-Circularity alone is not sufficient—it is the precision with which it is built into the ring that counts. The exclusive designs and precision methods employed by Hastings in building Plus-Circularity into all Hastings Rings accounts for much of their superiority in oil and blow-by control at high speeds and in their unusually long life.

If you are having oil troubles with your car, install Hastings Rings and rid yourself of the expense of feeding an oil burning motor. The Standard Auto Parts Co., located at 121 East Mill street are dealers for Hastings Rings—they will be glad to explain more advantages to be gained by installing Hastings Rings.

The Stars Say--

For Tuesday, Dec. 3

Although much activity and personal initiative will be stimulated by today's planetary forces, yet there will be need for much resolution and strenuous attack upon aggressive hostility as well as veiled opposition or secret enmity and treachery. This may be felt in employment as well as in the launching of individual propositions. Make plans with great care, sign papers with precaution and eventually progress will "cap the climax."

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of important affairs which must be pushed through vigorously by determination and initiative in a decisive attack on treacherous undercurrents as well as open hostilities. Vigilance to these and extreme precaution in making contracts and signing papers should lead to ultimate triumph against all malefic forces. The energies and faculties will be found keyed to adequate aggressiveness for the attack.

A child born on this day may have many complexities, problems and ambitions which may make much opposition and evil, but it will triumph over its enemies. Normally gentle, Colonel Cody [illegible]

SofKurd Milk Fine Food for Sick or Convalescent

The same features of digestibility that make SofKurd Milk so valuable to those in normal health, make it still more valuable to those who are on liquid diet. For this reason the sick, the convalescent, the aged and infirm—all will find in SofKurd an ideal, nutritionally well-proportioned food.

In fact, SofKurd is the only milk that can, in a true sense, be called liquid food. It actually remains fluid through the process of digestion. Since it contains many of the essential food substances in abundance and since these food substances are so readily available, there is no necessity for taking large quantities of other food in order to derive the necessary nourishment.

Aged persons delight in SofKurd for the reasons previously stated. It gives them warmth, energy and nourishment, without requiring them to eat too much bulky food. The fact that it causes no distressed after-feeling and leaves no curd in the intestines, is of special importance. People in a weakened physical condition need not only an easily digestible, highly nourishing food, but one that has no tendency to cause constipation. SofKurd is notable for its freedom from any such tendency.

"I'd better ask Betty—"

Most men know that their wives have sound and expert opinions on merchandise. Even the husband who would never admit his need for advice usually tries to ferret out her views, wishes and hopes before buying.

Why? Because most women seem to have an inborn interest in new things and better ways....They are curious and alert....They ask their friends about this and about that....They compare values with great care....They read the advertisements eagerly for the latest news.

It pays to keep ahead, by keeping up with advertising. Well-known products are definitely better products—if not, they couldn't be advertised month after month and year after year. The manufacturer and the merchant both know that the business that prospers is the business that promises satisfaction and keeps its promise.

The advertisements in this newspaper contain useful information about many things that concern you personally. Read every one that interests you....Read it carefully and take it seriously.

My recipe for baking ham calls for a slice of ham instead of the large roast:

Baked Ham

One slice ham about one inch thick; one cup cooked macaroni; one-half cup grated cheese; one-fourth cup brown sugar; one teaspoon dry mustard; two and one-half cups milk.

Soak the ham in cold water for one hour. Drain and wipe dry. Rub with dry mustard. Rub the brown sugar into the ham. Put in a baking dish and pour on two cups of the milk. Bake 45 minutes in a moderate, 375 degrees F., oven. Add the cooked macaroni to the ham, with the remainder of the milk. Cover with cheese and return to the oven until the cheese is melted and the cheese sauce is bubbling. Serve at once. Enough for four or five.

Broiled Tomatoes

Cut the tops and bottoms of tomatoes, then cut in two crosswise, leaving half a tomato for each slice. Season with salt and pepper and a little sugar then cover each side with fine crumbs. Saute in a little hot fat until each side is delicately browned. Turn just once. Prepare two slices for each serving.

Apple Fritters

One and one-third cups flour; one and one-third teaspoons baking powder; one-fourth teaspoon salt; one egg; two-thirds cup milk; four apples.

Sift the flour, salt and baking powder. Beat the egg, add milk and combine with the dry ingredients. Slice the apples, dip the slices in the batter and fry in deep hot fat. Drain, serve sprinkled with a little powdered sugar. Enough for four or five.

Sweet Potato Souffle

Five medium sized sweet potatoes; one fourth teaspoon salt; one teaspoon baking powder; three tablespoons butter; seasoning of white pepper; cream.

Boil the potatoes then skin and put through the ricer. Add the baking powder, salt, pepper and butter. Add enough cream to make quite moist then beat vigorously. Put into a greased baking dish set in a pan of hot water and bake in a hot oven, about 400 degrees F., until the mixture is puffed and browned. Marshmallows may be laid on top for the last few minutes of browning. Five servings.

Date Pudding

Two tablespoons gelatine; one cup sugar; one cup raisins; one fourth cup nuts; one half cup water; one teaspoon vanilla; one cup chopped, stoned dates; one and one-half squares chocolate; two cups milk.

Soak the gelatine in cold water. Put the milk in the upper part of the double boiler. Add chocolate and when melted, beat. Add sugar and gelatine to this. Then add fruits and nuts. Mix well. Turn into a wet mold. Chill. Unmold and serve with lemon sauce or cream. Enough for four or five.

Corn Pudding

One half green pepper; two cups cooked or canned corn; one fourth cup cream; two tablespoons butter; one fourth cup cracker crumbs; pepper and salt to taste.

Parboil the green pepper in boiling water for fifteen minutes. Cut off the top, and remove the seeds and pulp. Cut into small pieces. Mix the corn, green pepper, cream, and seasoning and half of the butter together. Put the mixture in a flat baking dish, or individual ramekins. Sprinkle the top with the cracker crumbs and small bits of butter. Put into a moderate oven, 375 degrees F., for 25 minutes. Serves five or six.

Mrs George Thurn

A FAVORITE HOLIDAY DISH—SCALLOPED OYSTERS

Scalloped oysters are delicious with or without the turkey — and especially welcome on a cold night as the main dish for supper. Try them tonight. See recipe below.

Four cups fine soft bread crumbs; one fourth teaspoon salt; one eighth teaspoon of pepper; one eighth teaspoon of paprika; one half cup melted butter; one pint bluepoint oysters, drained; one third cup oyster liquid; one half cup top milk.

Combine bread crumbs, salt, pepper and paprika. Add butter tossing lightly to mix well. Sprinkle one third of crumbs in bottom of greased baking dish. Arrange one half of oysters on crumbs. Sprinkle second third of crumbs over oysters. Add remaining oysters. Combine oyster liquor and milk and pour over oysters. Top with remaining crumbs and sprinkle lightly with paprika. Bake in hot oven (450 degrees F.) thirty minutes. Serves eight.

Married Comrades

BY ADELE GARRISON

Mary Near Collapse As Noel Is Carried to Cottage.

HAD NOEL lapsed into the unconsciousness which would mean concussion or fracture?

This was the question that caromed my brain as I saw the ghostly little procession, illuminated by the rays from Dr. Rickey's circling flashlights, coming up the rocky path from the pier, and realized that no sound came from the burden upon the stretcher.

The men carrying the stretcher, Bob Gibbs, his neighbor, Ed Shanklin, his man-of-all-work, Pete, and Williams, the man detailed by my father to guard us during our sojourn, were evidently used to such tasks, and were performing this one in workman-like fashion.

Mary, walking at the rear of the stretcher, was stumbling, even on her usually sure feet, and I sensed the panic that was hers.

With a smothered exclamation at my slowness of thought and action, I sprang forward to the nearest car and turned on its headlights. Then I rushed to the other three and did the same thing. The car lamps, focused from varying angles, flooded the scene with light, and Dr. Rickey's voice sounded the relief which I knew the stretcher bearers must share.

"Good work, Mrs. Graham!" he said. "Now we know where we are!"

Mary Grief Stricken

"I'm ashamed," I heard Williams mutter to Ed Shanklin, opposite him. "I should have thought of that when I saw the boat coming. But I only had one idea in my head, to get to the pier as soon as possible, for fear they'd be needing me bad."

"Shucks! a person can't think of everything," and then the front stretcher bearers were passing me, then the others, and Mary caught at my arm with a choked, suppressed cry.

"Oh! Auntie Madre!" That was all she said, but there was a world of grief and terror in the words.

Dr. Rickey's voice, calm, with the kindly but firm authority in it which good physicians know so well how to use, assured me of support and steadied Mary.

"If you wish to do the best thing for your husband, Mrs. Veritzen," he said to Mary, "you will go with your aunt now. We will send for you the second we are through with the things we must do for him, and with which you could not help us at all."

I felt Mary's slender figure stiffen in involuntary protest at leaving Noel for even a second, then she relaxed against me as I took her into my arms and held her closely.

Madge Comforts Her

"Come, darling!" I whispered. "You don't want to be responsible for delaying things a second. I'm going to take you into the room with Aunt Katherine and Mrs. Gibbs, where they are taking Noel, but I want you to promise me that you will come away with me and leave him with the physician the second I give you the signal."

"Oh! I will! I will!" she whispered. "But you'll let me stay with him as long as I possibly can, won't you?"

"Of course, darling," I told her, and with the word we were at the door of the camp living room through which the men were preparing to lift the stretcher.

"Suppose we go around to the kitchen door," I whispered. "There you can be within reach of Noel, and yet not be in the way."

"Whatever you say, dearest," she answered, and keeping my arm around her, I drew her around the house, and through the kitchen door.

We were in time to see the men set the stretcher down on the floor, and as I slipped my hand down over Mary's, I was conscious that her fingers were so clenched into her palms that her flesh must be torn. Dr. Rickey was bending over him, and we heard his voice.

"Well! old fellow, how goes it?"

Don't Take Drastic Drugs
Your Kidneys contain 9 million tiny tubes or filters which may be endangered by neglect or drastic, irritating drugs. Be careful. If functional Kidney or Bladder disorders make you suffer from Getting Up Nights, Nervousness, Loss of Pep, Leg Pains, Rheumatic Pains, Dizziness, Circles Under Eyes, Neuritis, Acidity, Burning, Smarting or Itching, you don't need to take chances. All druggists now have the most modern advanced treatment for these troubles—a Doctor's prescription called Cystex (Siss-Tex). Works fast—safe and sure, in 48 hours it must bring new vitality and is guaranteed to make you feel years younger in one week or money back on return of empty package. Cystex costs only 3c a dose at druggists and the guarantee protects you. —Adv.

STINK BOMB THROWN INTO MARION GRILL

Police Find No Motive for Incident in Investigation.

A stink bomb' tossed into Stones Grill at 119 South Main street, Sunday at 1 a. m routed some 20 customers and permeated the place with a nauseating odor

The bomb, thought to have been made of acetic acid and some other substance was in a quart glass container As the container was thrown into the room it broke as it struck and demolished a light fixture quickly spreading the gas throughout the store Dick Huston, bartender in charge, said

Police Chief Marks said that an investigation did not reveal a motive for the incident.

Customers standing near the door were unable to give a complete description of the person who tossed the improvised bomb but said that he was of small stature and wore a dark hat and overcoat. Witnesses said that following the incident they saw a man, of similar description, run to a car parked in an alley just south of the grill.
